Case No. 32023cv06092

3 V.

4 Housing Authority Grays harbor. Plaintiff's motion to show 5 cause.

6 The similarities between these two cases case No. 322-cv-05741 and case
7 No. 32023cv06092 involve Fourth Amendment violations, illegal stops,
8 unreasonable searches, and seizures. Both cases also address civil rights 9 violations and claims related to the use of unlawfully obtained evidence.

10 Conflicts ma claim asserts violations of the 14th Amendment's due process 11 rights, involving the use of illegally obtained evidence to remove the 12 plaintiff's three children and place them in foster care for an extended 13 period. The plaintiff contends that these actions have resulted in traumatic, 14 life-altering injuries, both physical and mental, for himself and his 15 children. The injuries are linked to the domestic violence, stalking, and 16 harassment experienced by the plaintiff, emphasizing the need for protection 17 under the Violence Against Women Act, including an emergency relocation by 18 the housing authority. y arise due to potential biases or connections, such 19 as the multi-family housing coordinator being married to a state judge who 20 presided over the fact-finding dependency trial. Additionally, the state 21 judge and their spouse have officers involved in both cases on their Facebook
22 friends list, and the state judge's wife was employed with the Hoquiam Police 23 Department. These connections could raise concerns about impartiality and 24 potential conflicts of interest in the legal proceedings.

28 The plaintiff's cause in this 1983 civil rights claim includes allegations of 29 multiple Fourth Amendment violations, specifically related to illegal stops, 30 unreasonable searches, and seizures. These violations occurred on May 5th, 31 2020, and July 2nd, 2020. Additionally, the 32 Furthermore

33 The plaintiff's 1983 civil rights claim in the US District Court Western 34 Washington State revolves around the Housing Authority's alleged negligence
35 and violation of federal law, specifically the Violence Against Women Act
36 (VAWA). The key points of the claim include:

37 1. The plaintiff informed the Housing Authority of domestic violence,
38 stalking, and harassment in December 2019, seeking an emergent
39 relocation under VAWA.
40 2. Despite assurances from the property manager in March 2020 about an 41 emergent relocation with undisclosed details for safety, the plaintiff 42 and his children were not relocated, exposing them to further domestic 43 violence and stalking.
44 3. The prolonged domestic violence and stalking led to a cascade of civil 45 rights violations, severe mental distress, trauma, PTSD, and the unjust 46 separation of the plaintiff from his children for 1,095 days.
47 4. The Housing Authority terminated the plaintiff's housing subsidy 48 without proper legal notice, attempted eviction, and imposed a 49 financial burden of $16,000, making it challenging for the plaintiff to 50 regain custody of his children.
51 5. The events unfolded at 107 Cub Lane Hoquiam Washington 98550 Emerson 52 Courts multi-family Housing Authority complex from December 2019 to 53 December 2023.
54 6. The defendants, the Housing Authority, were obligated to emergently 55 relocate the plaintiff and his children under federal law (VAWA), and 56 their alleged negligence is claimed to have violated this law.
